ROOSEVELT'S GOOD-BYE KISS FOR ELLERRE

NEW YORK, March 22.—Before departing on the arrangements for his wedding today, Colonel Roosevelt went to a new home in Thirty-second street, near First avenue, and said good-bye to Mrs. Mary Ledwith, seventy-nine years old, who nursed his wife when she was a child. There was a pathetic scene in the blue-walled room when the president, with his brother-in-law, Douglas Robinson, entered the little flat occupied by Mrs. Ledwith, her sister, Katherine Daly, and her brother, James Daly. Katherine Daly, who is seventy-four years old, has been desperately ill for several months. Mrs. Ledwith has been at her bedside.

McDONNICKS BLIGHT SHOCK FOR SOCIETY

The old legend to the dramatic marriage of Katherine Dexter to Stanley McDonnick, the millionaire son of the reaper king, has been shown to be a fiction today when it was learned that the young man had been placed in a sanatorium in California, apparently because of insanity.

It was known here that the beautiful Boston wife of young McDonnick had a great secret and that her husband was ill with the same in this city. It was not generally known that for months at a time he had to be taken care of by nurses and that they were virtually his slaves.

The Boston McDonnick lived in a house on Westbury road, Brookline. There they entertained lavishly. There came a revelation of social functions. Young McDonnick went for a time to the Hotel Marlborough-Blenheim, where he lived at No. 200 Commonwealth street. He was taken to a private sanatorium for treatment.

It was hoped that with proper medical care he would recover. Everything that medicine, skill and a great outlay of money could for the young man was done.

The new news came that he is under treatment in a hospital in California, and that no hope is felt for his recovery.

McDonnick is a child of a grand state of Providence. He was a son of John McDonnick, who died in 1890 at the age of 120.

In 1890 he married Katherine West Dexter, a sister of John Dexter, a well-known Boston doctor and a member of the Dexter family. She was a daughter of a wealthy family and was married to the young man at the age of 18.

After the marriage she went to live with her father-in-law, who was a member of the Dexter family. She was a very beautiful woman and was very popular in society.

John L. Sullivan's Column

A fighter who fails to live up to the standard expected of him and makes a bad impression out of the ring by an unbecoming action usually gets his just deserts and they run their own course in time, but one who really means to reform may be given some consideration, he has the right stuff in him. There's one thing sure, a man who intends making any progress in the Quinquennial game can't dissipate and destroy his physical vigor and health to make any headway.

THE ISLAND OF REGENERATION

He had stopped to indulge in the luxury of self-examination. He would have found his feelings in such a mood of such strange emotions as would have been almost impossible to describe. Of but two things was he very clear: that he had been this morning, and that he was now a man. He had been this morning, and that he was now a man. He had been this morning, and that he was now a man.
